

FINDING YOUR MOVING MOJO - RESOURCES

Here are some resources which will help you as you move forward in your relocation process. There are literally thousands of websites and dozens of books out there and it can be very difficult to sort out what is useful from what is not. As well as our contact details, we've included a small selection of books and websites which will give you a good start. As the seminar series progresses, we'll add to the list with resources that are relevant to each topic. If you are interested in additional resources, please contact either of us.
